KNOCKS OUT GAMBLERS

BOARD OF TRADE DEALS ARE NOT VALID.

—the offer made by the proprietors of Dr. Sagar's Catarrh Remedy. It's a reward of $500 cash for an incurable case of catarrh, no matter how bad, or of how long standing. They'll carry it out, too. It's one thing to make the offer. It's a very different thing to make it good. It couldn't be done, except with an extraordinary medicine. But that's what they have. By it's mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sagar's Remedy cures the worst cases. It doesn't simply palliate for a time, or drive the disease to the lungs. It produces a perfect and permanent cure. Try it and see.

If you can't be cured, you'll be paid.

The only question is—are you willing to make the test, if the makers are willing to take the risk?

If so, the rest is easy. You pay your druggist fifty cents and the trial begins.

If you're wanting the $500 you'll get something better—a cure!

LYNCHED BY MASKED WHITE MEN.

The next day Brown's body was found in a creek with a rope round his neck. No cause for the murder was given. Brown was a witness against two white men charged with burning a barn.

KNOCKS OUT THE GRAM GAMBLERS.

The Minnesota Supreme Court says contracts in future are not valid.

The Supreme Court of Minnesota has handed down a decision of first importance to gamblers, which knocks out dealers in futures and the lower courts in one sweeping blow. The decision is far-reaching, as it will enable men to get caught by the Board of Trade in the future, and contracts unless they buy and sell real grain.

GUATEMALANS REVOLT.

The POPULACE SEEK BARILLOS' BLOOD.

Soldiers Defied on the National Highway and Many Shot Down—Armed Force Used to Suppress the Rioters—The Opening of an Oklahoma Town Site—Wild Rush for Lots.

Reports have been received of a revolution in Guatemala in which 500 lives have been sacrificed. It appears that the people were celebrating the anniversary of their national holiday, and President Barillas had personally appointed the orators of the day. To this the masses took exception. When the orators took the rostrum it was a signal for a storm of stones, which set them to flight, they fled in haste through the streets, followed by a mob of excited partisans. The rioters were driven from the plaza by the force of the rioters, and soon Barillas threw a battalion of infantry into the large square for the purpose of dispersing the mob. The mob was fixed upon the plaza by assault. They were met with a shower of stones and by a fusillade from revolvers and rifles, leaving many dead and wounded behind. Members of the mob shouted: "Let's storm the national palace! Kill Barillas and his ministers! Let's burn the government buildings!" Barillas then ordered artillery into the plaza and infantry and cannon to surround his residence. When the guns were turned on the mob the rioters fled, keeping up a desultory fire from revolvers and pistols. The mob was dispersed, but the rioters fled, keeping up a desultory fire from revolvers and pistols.

THE END OF HIS TETHER.

The "Brav" General, Ernest Jean Barillas, ex-Minister of War of France, shot himself through the head at Barillas while standing by the grave of Mme. Bonnamy, the woman who had been known as his mistress since the stirring days of 1898. He fell forward on the grave, and was found by an attendant, who rushed instantly to the spot, pulled dead. The fall had been from the side of the left ear, and the revolver was still clutched in his right hand.

Mme. Bonnamy was the mistress of the house in the Rue de Berri, Paris, whither Barillas resorted so frequently when he was at the top of his power. The place was his home, and he was watched by spies it was from this house that Barillas fled to England and with him went Mme. Bonnamy. She was a constant companion in his life, and in Brussels and in Jersey, following his broken fortunes with the same faithful devotion which she paid to him in the days of his apparent prosperity. Her fortune of 1,500,000 francs was freely his.

Mme. Bonnamy died July 1st of consumption, and since then Barillas has been in a state of unbroken melancholy. He frequently visited her grave, which was situated in the cemetery of St. Louis, and he was often seen there, weeping and sighing over the exclusive use of this plot.
